

Gold Beach, OR; January 27, 2010: Paul Weber, President of UIC (Uniteam International Corporation), announces the availability of a new software suite that, to this point has only been publicized in predictions about the future. The software is designed to help you save your business, your marriage, or other entities/efforts/people important to you. It serves your own interest in self-improvement/life management, all integrated with tools that lead re-invented meetings. ‘An art form and a team sport where everyone wins’ is a frequent observation by those first viewing this new style of meeting.

Integrated beneath the "coach" and "guide"-based interface are tools to improve the core competencies of human beings: thinking, communicating, understanding. And beneath that is a methodology dedicated to an individual or a group achieving ‘Thought Processing in 3-D’™. This software leads you through each step of each use of each of its services, and it also trains/certifies for group use. Peter Jessen’s review calls it “a ‘must-have’ piece of software... it says what it does and does what it says.” Ray Abner, IBM, thought the basic system’s peak experiences and unity helped explain the dramatic increases in productivity and teamwork that he found.

UNITEAM™, the suite of four venue-related computer programs from UIC, is said to be software that makes life work™. As explained on the website, BeyondTeam.com, work on this application began 1/27/1964. Shipments began 12/4/09, but for sentimental reasons 1/27/2010, is the date of expanded availability. This announcement is made from UIC HQ in Gold Beach, Oregon. To celebrate 46 years, in 2010, there’ll be classes and show/tell seminars of UNITEAM™ and Synthesys®, and demonstrations of roundtable* solutions to problems.

What these programs are designed to do is unique, powerful, unimaginable, life-altering. The 45-year-long history of the use of the system these programs automate makes this news: worthy of immediate follow-up.

A literally ‘Brehtaking’ Breakthrough: Among their many talents, features, and benefits, these programs lead business and personal meetings without a living, breathing facilitator or note-taker, yet at the end of the meeting, accurate, complete, indexed, meeting notes are issued, and the meeting is almost certain to have been thoughtful, harmonious, results-oriented, effective, and enjoyable. Resulting plans will be readily executable.

As stated in the FAQs on the website, located near the bottom of the Home Page, the ‘what the programs do’ section is amazing. The examples in FAQ #1 include:

- 1) Enable a team, just the team members alone, to build itself, to manage itself and its projects, and to manage its own life, its own success, within the authority of its place and time and mission--its charter.
- 2) Enable a meeting to manage and lead itself, in a thoughtful and harmonious way, with no facilitator or note-taker present, to attain specific goals and objectives: to be results-oriented, effective, enjoyable.
- 3) Enable an individual to manage and integrate their own life, their other uses of this program, and their own self-improvement: from the foundation of their own viewpoints, loyalties, beliefs, integrity--based on their own character, values, management style, personality, charter, mission, goals, way of thinking.
- 4) Enable an individual or a group, such as a business or a family, to address their goal of becoming fully functional, joyful, successful--their goal of making life work.

And FAQ #2 focuses on the next question, ‘why these programs work’. Amazing again—reasons include:

- 1) How it relates to people and relates them to each other results in the programs’ remarkable ability to bond people together, with insights, with a unity that turns around polarization; a gift of peak experiences; and productivity.
- 2) How it has evolved from world-class work-place environment to the unimaginable: the programs’ heritage, from results of the first use of the system in 1964, and the transformations that followed. The new program suite is one of a series of steps--each has worked--it rests on solid ground. It is unique/powerful, and enables wisdom/understanding.

If this seems important to pursue, see the website at BeyondTeam.com; or, email: BeyondTeam@charter.net. *to register or learn more, call 877.UniTeam (541.twentyfour seven.team). (541.247.8326)—maximum: 50 seats.